

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention is directed to methods and compositions for depositing a noble metal alloy onto a microelectronic workpiece. In one particular aspect of the invention, a platinum metal alloy is electrochemically deposited on a surface of the 5 workpiece from an acidic plating composition. The plated compositions when combined with high-k dielectric material are useful in capacitor structures.